The CPH Foundation Board Adds Experienced Corporate Medical Director

WASHINGTON— The Campaign for Public Health Foundation is pleased to announce the addition of Dr. Brent Pawlecki as the newest member of our Board of Directors. Dr. Pawlecki is the Corporate Medical Director for Pitney Bowes Inc., overseeing all of the company's health related issues and services. For roughly a decade, Dr. Pawlecki has helped Pitney Bowes run their award-winning corporate clinic and wellness programs, establishing the company as a leader in workplace wellness.

The CPH Foundation was incorporated in February of this year for the charitable and educational purposes of educating the public, the media, policy makers and others about the important role public health plays in our nation's health system.

Dr. Pawlecki's experience in Pitney Bowes' corporate medical setting will provide The CPH Foundation with invaluable insights on wellness, prevention and the positive health outcomes that can be achieved through comprehensive prevention strategies. His medical training and prior experience in private practice, in emergency medicine and his involvement in numerous professional organizations will also benefit the Foundation greatly as we continue to build this new organization.

"I am honored to join The CPH Foundation as a member of the Board, and look forward to working with the Foundation to strengthening the nation's understanding of how beneficial and valuable public health programs are to all Americans," Dr. Pawlecki said.

Dr. Pawlecki is also joining the Board of The CPH Foundation's sister organization, the Campaign for Public Health. The Campaign for Public Health is a 501(c)(4) organization founded on the 4th of May, 2004.
